

SEMINAR

The CENTRE FOR GOVERNANCE OF KNOWLEDGE & DEVELOPMENT (ANU) and HUMAN DEVELOPMENT REPORT OFFICE, UNITED NATIONS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME

in collaboration with the NATIONAL EUROPE CENTRE and
NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL SCIENCES & LAW present

Human Development Report 2005 International Cooperation at a Crossroads: Aid, Trade and Security in an Unequal World

Friday, 9 September 2005, 9.15am - 2.15pm
Innovations Lecture Theatre

Innovations Building (#124), cnr Garran & Eggleston Rds
The Australian National University
(including refreshments & light lunch)

Places are strictly limited

RSVP essential by Tuesday, 6 September to: cgkd@anu.edu.au or T: (02) 6125 1515

Enquiries to: cgkd@anu.edu.au or T: (02) 6125 1515

On 7 September the United Nations Development Programme's Human Development Report 2005 will be released. This seminar will provide an important opportunity to join with experts and practitioners in development, aid and trade to assess the major issues confronting global development.

Presenters:

- ◆ Mr Arunabha Ghosh, Human Development Report Office, United Nations Development Programme, New York
- ◆ Professor John Braithwaite, ARC Federation Fellow, RegNet, ANU, Canberra
- ◆ Professor Peter Drahos, Director, Centre for Governance of Knowledge and Development and Head, RegNet, ANU, Canberra
- ◆ Mr James Love, Director, Consumer Project on Technology, Washington DC

Any views expressed in this seminar are those of the presenters and do not necessarily represent the views of The Australian National University

Human Development
Report 2005

International cooperation at a crossroads:
Aid, trade and security in an unequal world

