

ANU has offered safe and secure online payments for several years for transcript requests, tuition and fees.

You can now purchase replacement student ID cards & other miscellaneous transactions online as well.

Therefore from 29 June 2015 ANU Student Central will no longer accept over-the-counter payments. All payments can be made safely and securely through ISIS, BPAY and for international currencies Western Union Business Solutions.

The FAQs below outline how this may change the way you make payments.

How do I pay my tuition and fees?

All tuition and fee payments can be made through ISIS with a credit or scheme debit card or by using BPAY. BPAY is available to all students with an Australian bank account.

To make a credit or scheme debit card payment log into ISIS, select Main Menu > ISIS > Account Details > Follow the prompts to make a payment.

BPAY reference number is available on your invoice or can be constructed by following the instructions here: <http://www.anu.edu.au/students/program-administration/costs-fees/payment-methods>.

Are any other payment methods available?

Payments made in foreign currencies can be made through Western Union Business Solutions. To pay your fees using this method complete the online Western Union payment form.

What if I only have cash available to make a payment?

To make a payment with cash you will need to visit ANU Student Central and complete a cash payment slip. You will then use the completed payment slip to deposit your payment at any National Australia Bank (NAB) branch using the reference number provided by ANU Student Central staff. Once your payment has been deposited return your payment slip with proof of payment to Student Central to have your transaction processed.

Please note, this type of payment may take up to 7 business days to finalise the transaction as the funds need to be deposited into the university bank account and allocated to your student account before your transaction can be completed.

Pre-loaded/prepaid credit cards are available from various locations. They are a quick, secure, easy and safe way to make online payments.

How can my parents, guardians or employer pay for my tuition fees?

Third parties can pay your tuition using BPAY from domestic bank accounts or Western Union Business Solutions for foreign currency payments. When making the payment by BPAY they will need to quote the reference number found on your invoice.

How can I make a payment for my HDR international onshore extension?

Upon receiving approval to extend your HDR program you will be issued a letter detailing the tuition cost of the extension. Payment can then be made via BPAY or for foreign currencies with the completion of the online Western Union payment form.

I have short paid my invoice through ISIS or BPAY, how can I pay the balance?

Paying the remaining amount can be made in the same way you made the original payment. You can pay online through ISIS with a credit card or by using the same BPAY Biller Code and reference number.

Please note, your financial institution may impose a minimum payment amount. If you make an overpayment, you can credit the amount towards future fees or submit an Application for Refund.

What BPAY Biller Code and reference number should I use?

Look for the BPAY biller code and reference number on your ANU invoice.

The reference number varies each enrolment session. To ensure your payment is allocated correctly, use the reference number on your current invoice. If you misplace your invoice you can find the list of ANU BPAY reference numbers here.
