4. Financial Operations of KCC (Guest: Vibo Chandrasekera, Deputy CFO)

Following discussions with Kiaran and Grady, Vibo made some investigations into the true cost of running the campus, with the aim of understanding the prices to be charged and the mix of 'customers' (internal vs external) required to make the campus break even financially. Under the ANU's current method of financial management, the Expenditure Control Framework, 'commercial' management is not possible. The proposed solution is to set-up the campus with a 'trading account'

Vibo set an initial range of parameters based on some assumptions around feasible occupation rates etc. and modelled the campus as a business using the current rate for ANU staff / students of $66/night (accommodation, three meals and cleaning included). This modelling showed that for every extra person per night the campus would lose money.

A breakeven scenario with external users paying double (i.e. $132/night) was modelled and showed that the user base would have to be heavily weighted towards externals to achieve breakeven (75 / 25 external / internal users).

The Committee agreed this would not be an acceptable level of user use and agreed to do some market comparisons for accommodation including:

- Siding Spring accommodation pricing for externals ($165/night)
- Other ANU fieldwork trips (Anna Cowan to investigate)
- Other universities' field site charges for external users (Kiaran Kirk to investigate)
- Other local accommodation options (Nancy Richardson to investigate)

In addition to market comparisons, Riley noted that the $66/night fee was similar to the cost of living on the Acton campus and thus it would seem reasonable to charge more, and Anna noted that there are scholarships available to enable students who cannot afford fees to attend fieldwork courses.

Bookings have already been taken for January so it is desirable to set the rates for 2023 by November. It was agreed that the market comparison information be gathered and provided to Vibo prior to the next meeting (31 October), and for Vibo to attend again at that meeting for further discussion.

Vibo left the meeting at 10.46 am

Anna suggested that the Committee consider other, flexible ways to keep fieldtrips for students affordable such as having Schools partially subsidise the costs.

5. Update on KCC capital works and bookings (Brad Condon) [photos attached]

A list of current bookings was circulated to the Committee prior to the meeting. Although some bookings are for only a few people, the demand appears to be growing with very few completely vacant weeks between September and December.

Brad reported that the last phase of the main capital works is underway. Examples include:

- Walshes Cottage is to become the accessibility cottage and awaits floor coverings to be finished.
- Some demolition work is waiting for local council approval.
- Next tasks include insulating every building, work on decks and structural renovations.
- The staff offices are to be moved out of the London Shed which will allow a new lecture room to be created.
- A new gate is to be installed and the road will be sealed.
- Peters Cottage – the floor is gone and there is consideration of removing the cottage entirely and replacing it with a four-bedroom modular building, with an ensuite for each bedroom.

Brad noted that new builds cost about the same as renovation and he agreed to send pictures of the new builds to the Committee. The Committee asked that F&S ensure any new builds are 'sustainable' / environmentally friendly.

At the end of this phase of works the accommodation capacity will rise from the current 50 beds to 70.

6. Other Business

Grady will look into NSW Community Grants to potentially help establish the 'keeping place' on site that the Traditional Owners would like us to establish.

Brad raised the issue of the longer term use of the Homestead which is currently untouched. It will not be able to be used for accommodation and will require some maintenance to be useable.

The meeting finished at 10.55 am

Kioloa accommodation – market comparison

1. Kioloa Beach Holiday Park
   a. Cheapest cabin sleeps 5 in bunks, whole cabin $158/night
   b. Most expensive cabin sleeps 5 in bunks (some double sized), whole cabin $330/night

2. Other ANU (CoS) field trip cost examples (provided by Craig Strong, Fenner)
   a. $52/student/night: Cabin style accommodation, 2 to a room, 8 rooms in the cabin. Shared bathroom. Location = Laurel Hill; Full catering at additional charge is on top of this
   b. $16/student/night: Converted railway carriages, 8 to a carriage. Shared bathroom. Location = Tanga Caravan Park Trangie – rural NSW, Vendor also fully caters at $80/p/day
   c. $100/dorm/night: Dorm style, 10 to a dorm (therefore $10/student/night). Shared bathroom. Location = Holiday Haven Lake Tabourie south coast NSW;
   d. $99/student/night: Dorm style, 10 to a dorm. Shared bathroom. Location = Kosciuszko Tourist Park NSW

   • Note, usually at each of these facilities smaller cabins are also hired for the staff. These come at a different rate, similar to standard caravan park cabin rates.

3. Other universities’ field sites
   a. Heron Island Research Station (UQ) Accommodation + catering (3 meals/day) = approx. $115/person/night (catering portion $64/day)
   b. Moreton Bay Research Station (UQ)
      Accommodation + catering (3 meals/day) = $80 - $90/person/night (catering portion $55/day).
