

AILEEN MORETON-ROBINSON INDIGENOUS STUDENT PRIZE

CONDITIONS OF AWARD

1. INTRODUCTION AND RECOGNITION

Each year the ANU Law School, within the ANU College of Law, may offer one award known as the Aileen Moreton-Robinson Indigenous Student Prize.

The objectives of the prize are to recognise an Indigenous student(s) who has demonstrated a high level of academic excellence through completing the Bachelor of Laws (Honours) program and successfully undertaking LAWS3202 Honours Thesis or LAWS4300 Supervised Research Paper, or an Indigenous student who has completed a Juris Doctor and achieved a GPA of 5 at the ANU College of Law. The prize encourages the recipient to take up research within academia in the future.

The value of the prize awarded is $1,000. If two or more students are eligible, the prize will be awarded to the student with the highest mark in LAWS3202 Honours Thesis or the highest overall GPA. If the award cannot be split, the prize awarded in that year shall be divided equally between them.

The prize will be on offer from year to year unless otherwise stated by the donor.

Funding for this prize has been provided by the Wood Indigenous Law Endowment which also supports the Anthony McAvoy SC Prize for Indigenous Community Legal Clinic and the Mick Dodson Prize for Indigenous Australians and the Law.
