

LADY ISAACS PRIZE

CONDITIONS OF AWARD

1. INTRODUCTION AND RECOGNITION

Each year the School of History in the College of Arts & Social Sciences may offer a prize known as the Lady Isaacs Prize.

The objective of the prize is to recognise the accomplishments of the student in any one year who achieves the highest final result in a course focussed on Australian history.

The value of the prize/s awarded is $100.

The prize will be on offer annually.

The Lady Isaacs Prizes were established in 1937 on acceptance by the Canberra University College (CUC) Council of £109 from the Federal Capital Citizens Association, being the unexpended portion of a fund established for the purpose of making a presentation to Sir Isaac Isaacs and Lady Isaacs on the completion of Sir Isaacs' term as Governor-General.

2. ELIGIBILITY

The award is available each year to an ANU student who:

The Dean of the College of Arts & Social Sciences or delegate reserves the right to make no award if it is determined that there is no candidate of sufficient merit. The Dean of the College of Arts & Social Sciences or delegate may also vary the number of prizes, if multiple winners are identified, by splitting the prize.

Where required, the University Medal Committee will be available for qualitative or subjective assessment determinants if a decision is not reached within the College to determine prize winners.
