

CITATION –Professor Margaret Jolly, ANU College of Asia & the Pacific

The Peter Baume Award is the University's most prestigious award. It recognises eminent achievement and merit of the highest order.

This award recognizes Professor Jolly's distinguished career at the ANU where she has achieved outstanding national and international recognition in the fields of anthropology, Pacific and gender studies. She has transformed our understanding of gender relations in Oceania, combining the perspectives and methods of anthropology and history in a transdisciplinary approach characteristic of both Pacific and gender studies.

Over her remarkable career Margaret has successfully supervised 55 PhD students, 10 Postdoctoral Fellows (several supported by ARC grants), mentored many more early career scholars and produced many hundreds of scholarly publications.

She has played a pivotal role in the foundation of the cross-Campus Gender Institute at ANU which was launched in 2011. This has had a tremendous public impact on the ANU community and beyond, with a vibrant series of public conferences, lectures and outreach events, involving policy makers and practitioners alongside scholars in public debates.

Margaret was appointed Member of the Order of Australia (AM) in January 2020 for services to education on gender and Pacific Studies.
